We had huge problems with php-update breaking the management-section of the site which lead to lack of news, articles and other stuff. Now the problems have been resolved (hopefully permanently). We will be getting back on track with content updates in near future and maybe create some competitions also.

And on the other news, Assembly 2007 is going on as I'm writing this and you can expect to see some awesome Flash-demos in the browser demo -competition. The competition will be ran at 1700 (bst+2) saturday 4th of August. We will be adding demos to Flashscene.org as soon as they are released to public (Sunday most likely). If you want to see the demos live, you have a chance to do that by either coming to Assembly yourself or by watching Assembly-tv .

Stay tuned!
